

LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT

ROADMAP

1.

FIND JOY IN THE JOURNEY

Before you can change, you must first accept that change is necessary. An open mind and an open heart makes learning more fun and more effective.

2.

LEAD YOURSELF

Before you are able to lead anyone else, you must be able to lead yourself. This happens through accountability, self-management, and a willingness to take healthy risks.

3.

LEAD YOUR PARTNERS

Show the people closest to you that you are making progress. Offer to lead projects and events that others are unwilling to undertake and make thoughtful contributions to the conversation.

4.

LEAD YOUR TEAM

Once you've gained the trust of your partners, you need to gain the trust of your team. This is when work is truly done. Listen to innovative ideas and be prepared to provide constructive feedback.

5.

LEAD YOUR BUSINESS

Once you've reached your leadership potential, it's time to take charge of your business' success. Take what you've learned throughout your journey and use it to grow your company.
